DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1,2,5,6-8,11,12,14-19,22,23,25,26, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(w) as being anticipated by USP 6,813,793 (Eliav).

Eliav discloses a toothbrush (100) comprising a handle (102), a head (120) atop a neck portion (106), the handle (102) being hollow, a movable bristle holder (180) having a plurality of movable bristles (185). The device further comprises a drive mechanism to provide reciprocating oscillating motion to the bristle holder (180) (col.7, lines 41-61). The head (120) comprises a second bristle field (200) comprising a plurality of bristles (205), the second field being static. The first bristle holder (18) comprising a protrusion (300) which is connected to the oscillating bristle holder (18) and extends into the second bristle field (200) such that when the first bristle holder (180) moves the protrusion (300) moves and causes displacement of bristles (205a) in the second field (200). The second field (200) also has bristles (205d) which are not moved by the protrusion (300).

Art Unit: 1744

The bristles are disclosed as being either elastomeric or non-elastomeric (col. 6, lines 14-37). Figure 5 shows that the bristles may be a single elastomeric cylinder.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1744

Claims 4,9,10, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USP 6,813,793 (Eliav).

[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation." In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955). The claimed rate of reciprocation of the bristle holder are considered to be within routine experimentation of the use of the toothbrush in Eliav.

In Gardner v. TEC Systems, Inc., 725 F.2d 1338, 220 USPQ 777 (Fed. Cir. 1984), cert. denied, 469 U.S. 830, 225 USPQ 232 (1984), the Federal Circuit held that, where the only difference between the prior art and the claims was a recitation of relative dimensions of the claimed device and a device having the claimed relative dimensions would not perform differently than the prior art device, the claimed device was not patentably distinct from the prior art device. The claimed angle of displacement defined in claim 9 is therefore obvious.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3,13,20,24,27, are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

As allowable subject matter has been indicated, applicant's reply must either comply with all formal requirements or specifically traverse each requirement not complied with. See 37 CFR 1.111(b) and MPEP § 707.07(a).
